1. Introduction

The development of companies that can compete and keep up with the progress of the times, so that company goals can be achieved well. Related to this, good employee quality is important in a company, because good employee quality can improve the quality of the company itself. In this case, it can be seen that a good employee must have a good level of loyalty and performance.

Performance is a real behavior displayed by each person as a work achievement produced by employees by their role in a company. High performance implies an increase in efficiency, effectiveness, or higher quality of completing tasks that have been assigned to an employee in a company. Employee performance is very important in the company's efforts to achieve its goals.

This is because employees are valuable assets for the company. With full support from employees in carrying out their duties, it is hoped that they can maximize the achievement of the company's goals. With maximum employee work performance, it is hoped that the company will have the ability to compete and be superior to competitors so that it can survive and be competent. Improving employee performance in a company cannot be separated from the role of human resource management.

Human Resource Management (HRM) is one of the areas of general management that includes aspects of planning, organizing, implementing, and controlling. Human resource management acts as the executor of company functions, namely planning, organizing, staff management, leadership, and supervision as well as implementing company operations. Sharia management is a behavior related to the values of faith and monotheism. Every human behavior in an activity is based on the values of monotheism, therefore their behavior will be controlled and there will be no KKN (corruption, collusion, and nepotism) because they feel they are always being watched by Allah.

The Islamic management that has been implemented provides quite significant changes related to the Sharia system in Islamic management such as moral values, compensation, spirituality, and the bank's organizational system as well as strict sanctions set by the bank if an employee violates the Sharia management system. The increase in employee performance at BPRS Partners Agro Business Makassar was due to the transition from conventional to Sharia because they were motivated by Islamic teachings for work intentions and responsibility.

2. Research Methods

This research uses a qualitative method, which focuses on in-depth observation. Therefore, the use of qualitative approach methods in research is to be able to produce comprehensive studies of phenomena that occur in the field.

Data collection is the most important step in research, because the main aim of research is to obtain data, namely as follows:

a. Interviews are a form of verbal communication that aims to obtain information. With this method, researchers want to obtain data directly regarding the role of valid sources
b. Documentation studies obtain data from documents such as written data, whereas what is meant is a way of obtaining data based on notes. The documentation in this research will use history, vision and mission, organizational structure, and assessment techniques for employee performance.
c. Observation is for data collection where the researcher records information as seen, and witnessed during the research. By collecting data through direct observation of situations or events in the field.

2.2. Data analysis

Qualitative research is the process of systematizing what is being researched and organizing the results of interviews such as what was done and understood so that the researcher can present what is obtained to other people. To analyze the data, this research uses an inductive way of thinking, namely a way of thinking that starts from specific and concrete facts, and concrete events, then from these specific and concrete facts or events generalizations are drawn that have a general nature.

3. Results and Discussion

3.1. BPRS Partners Agro Business products - Makassar

Fund collection at Sharia banks can take the form of current accounts, savings, and deposits. Sharia operational principles applied in collecting public funds at BPR Syariah consist of the following:

a. Fundraising Products (Funding)
   1) Wad'iah savings Wad'iah savings are third-party savings at Partners Agro Business Syariah Bank from which withdrawals can be made at any time. These savings funds are managed in trust by the bank as mudharib. Customers receive rewards as bonuses.

2) Mudharabah savings Mudharabah savings are savings that are run based on a mudharabah agreement. Mudharabah has two forms, namely mudharabah mutlaqah and mudharabah muqayyadah. The bank acts as mudharib (fund manager) while the customer acts as shahibul mal (fund owner). Sharia banks can act as many ribs and have the power to carry out various kinds of business that do not conflict with Sharia principles.

3) Mudharabah deposits Mudharabah deposits are investment funds based on mudharabah contracts or other contracts that do not conflict with Sharia principles where withdrawals can only be made at certain times based on the agreement between the customer and the Sharia bank.

b. Fund distribution products (Landing)

1) Multi-service ijarah financing Multi-service ijarah financing is financing where the bank provides a fee to the customer to obtain the benefits of a service. In principle, it is the same as ijarah, only in multi-service ijarah renting out consumer services in financing this multi-service ijarah, BPRS Partners Agro Business can receive juror or fee compensation. The amount of the fee must be agreed in advance and stated in nominal form.

2) Murabaha financing Murabahah financing financing for the procurement of goods (murabahah) is financing with a system of buying and selling goods. PT. BPRS Partners Agro Business sells goods according to customer wishes at agreed prices.
